Washington, July 1, -Speaker Reed to-day gave the public-at least the local publicanother exhibition of that tyrannical spirit that completely governs him. Under his that completely governs him. Under his orders the little stands in the House corridors, upstairs and down, where innehes, trinkets, cigars and the daily papers had for years been sold, were closed up and the boor protrictors turned out to hunt for locations elsewhere. The stands were not in the way, and among those sharing the privilege of waiting on the public there were some meritorious people.

A very serious inconvenience to members was the closing of the news-stand, where they had been able to get the New York papers and run their eyes over the more important news features before the hour of meetins, 12 o'ciock. To-day not a copy of any newspaper was to be had shoult the building anywhere. Members were obliged to go down two flights of stairs to make their purchases outside. The only comfort in this and other matters connected with Mr. Beed's reign is that less than another year will witness the end of that reign.

The Tabernacle congregation is alway doing some prodigious thing, and this morning a host of them, with a few accessions to their number from New York. Jersey City, Newark, Bayonne and other nearby spots, set out on a lunketing expedition which will consume the rest of the week and in which they will have traversed nearly the whole length of the Empire State. At 9 o'clock this morning 350 Tabernsele excursionists went through the gates at the ably filled seven commodious conches, which went to make up a special train in charge of contact with the dark waters of the East Conductor George Washington Cook.

There was but one element lacking to make the party perfectly happy this morning. Dr. Talmase and his estimable better half were not among the excursionists. Work destined Dr. Talmase.

But among those who did take passage on the special train were E. M. Wood, A. Wensel and Mrs. Wenzel, Mrs. A. G. Smith, Willie Smith, Matie McKibben, J. H. Small Village Submerged.

ISPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD, I CLEVIL ND, July 2. - Heavy rains of yesterday and last night did great damage throughout the city.

A large sewer at Lake View Park broke and opened up a cavity 150 feet across and 50 feet deep.

At Newburg the Kinsman street dam burst, rendering Herald, Woodlaws, Hills.

"That is not Annie! My God, that can't be her?" he cried in German. He had never seen a drowned body before, and he did not believe it nossible that two days in the water could have produced such a horrible charge.

"Are there any marks on her body by white, you would know her?" asked Keeper White.

"A mole on the right cheek," answered Allweis.

The Cieveland Rolling Mills were flooded and the standard Oil Works are under 10 feet of water.

The damage to the city is estimated at 200,000.
At Zanesville rain fell for two hours last inght with the violence of a cloudburst. Several bridges and several small buildings were swept away.
White Cottage, a village not far from Zanesville, is reported as completely submerged.
The people were forced to take refuge on higher ground.

Europe and the McKinley Bill.
Bealin, July 1.—A semi-official denial is made here of the statement published in yesterday evening's papers to the effect that the powers of Continental Europe, headed by Germany, had agreed to establish mutual repressive tariffs argainst american imports if the McKinley bill, now pending before the American Congress, becomes a law. Germany has taken no steps to counteract any possible injury to her American trade by the enactment of the McKinley bill.

None Knows Whether Her Death Was by Suicide or Accident.

Pretty, fair-haired Annie Einhorn, the young German girl who disappeared in so sudden and mysterious a manner last Saturday, was found this morning. She was Erie Railway station, Pavonia, and comfort- lying in a rough pine box, and all traces of River.

Her unaccountable disappearance had coming across New Jersey at a speed alarmed her friends terribly, and after which kept it ten minutes ahead of the Chicago express. vainly searching for her themselves they notified the public, and an alarm was sent out for her to every precinct in the city.

A crowd of ragged urchins were playing hamton, Owego and Eimira, and will land on the wharf at the foot of Jackson street the happy excursionists at Watkins Glen at pesterday afternoon. One of them disbobbed up and down the water in a very strange way.

The boys approached and saw that it was riftin the rugged rocks two miles long, from the body of a woman. A policeman was 50 to 400 feet deep, and ranging in breadth called by an affrighted lad, and when he peered down into the murky waters he saw a sweet face framed with hair that waved vard 200 feet in width, and the ascent from about the cheeks like threads of tarnished

It was a common enough occurrence in the daily life of a policeman who patrols the river front, but the sweet face made him wonder how the girl had come to such a death. He passed a rope around the body, and left it there until the "dead wagon" came from the Morgue and carried away the poor unfortunate.

No one knew her, so she was entered or

"Is see dead?" she whispered, and the reporter nodded in the affirmative.

The woman gave a shrick that was piercing and in a twinkling she had left the room and fied down the rickety stairs into the street.
Here she continued her lamentations, as she sped along the crowded thoroughfare into Attorney street, where she stopped at No. 92.

into Attorney street, where she stopped at No. 92.

The husband worked in an establishment that manufactures chidrens' jackets here, and in less time than it takes to tell it she was in her husband's arms, sobbing and crying that "Annie was dead."

When husband and wife grow calmer, the reporter volunteered to take Mr. Aliwels to the Morgue, and thus ascertain positively whether or no it was his sister-in-law who was there.

There was no mistake. The poor man picked up garment after garment and iden-tified it, and when the lid of the pine box was lifted off and disclosed to view the swollen, distorted corpse, he shrank back in horror. to was no mistake. The poor mi
